Boesen Receives Ph. D. In June

At the June commencement of Vanderbilt university, of Nashville, Tennessee, Mr Paul Boesen will have conferred on him the degree of Ph. D. in the Classics. The subject of his depreciation deals with a phase of the rule of Saint Benedict. Its title is "Regulae Santi Benedicte Index Verborum", and it is scheduled to come off the press around June 1.

the special vesper program Sunday evening, June 8, which is to be sponsored by the association. There will be a candlelight ceremony to induct the graduates into the Alumnae Association.

The seniors forgot their dignity Tuesday and tried to up a few years for annual Kid Day. Some straggled about the campus in fussygingham dresses with dolls and all-day suckers; but others dressed as boys—without the shoes. Wells Observe Anniversary At Reception

Sunday afternoon, June 1, Dr. and Mrs. Guy Wells will celebrate their silver anniversary with a reception at the Mansion from 4:00 until 7:00. About 350 guests, including the GSCW faculty, class presidents, presidents of the main organizations, and our-out-of-town friends of Eastman, Augusta, Columbus, Griffin, Dublin, Dalton, Savannah, Macon, Atlanta, Athens, and various other towns will be present.

Members of the orchestra directed by Mr. Lloyd Outland and the sextet from the Aeolian Guild will furnish a musical program. The sextet, which includes Lena Bowers, Augusta Slappy, Margaret Baldwin, Virginia Ryals, Sarah Vaughn, and Ann Gwynn will sing songs that were popular 25 years ago.

A representative from every town in which Dr. and Mrs. Wells have lived since their marriage will assist in serving and entertaining. These towns are Lumpkin, Richland, Donaldsonville, Eastman, Statesboro and Milledgeville. The color scheme to be used is green, white, and silver.

The first of the numerous messages of congratulations was a telegram sent May 17 by Mrs. W. Y. Atkinson.

CGA Selects Slate Treasurer

Joyce Slate has been appointed treasurer for College Government to take the place of Elizabeth King, who recently resigned this position.

Next year the new standing committees of CGA that will be composed of five members each will be headed by one of the following girls: Mary Ann McKinney, chairman of the point recording committee; Ann Stubbs, chairman of the chapel committee; Virginia Collar, chairman of the extra-curricular committee; and Elizabeth Tatum, chairman of the social committee.

One-Day Trips Based On Scholarship; Seniors Given More Unexcused Absences

The campus regulations which have been changed for the coming year have been passed by the Faculty-Student Relations Board and the Executive Committee. A committee from College Government has been working on the following changes:

Seniors Give Formal Dance Friday Night

Next Friday night the seniors will swing out for their last class dance to the music of the Auburn Plainsmen. The dance will be held in the gymnasium from 9 til 1 o'clock.

Nell Ryan, president of the senior class, and her escort will head the lead-out, followed by the other class officers and seniors with their dates.

Since the dance is to be formal, simple and tasteful decorations have been chosen, featuring the senior colors, green and white. Ferns in white boxes tied with green ribbon will bank the corners of the gymnasium. A huge white academic cap, inscribed with the figures 1941, will serve as the band stand. The canopy under which couples will form for the lead-out will be of white tinsel and smilax.

For the no-breaks, white cards picturing academic caps and diplomas will be used.

Alpha Psi Initiates Nine New Members

At the conclusion of the initiation into Alpha Psi Omega, dramatic society, their annual banquet was given Thursday night in Ennis Coffee Shop. Dr. Mack Swearingen was the principal speaker.

Officers of Alpha Psi are Marion Culpepper, Beth Williams, and Mildred Covin and the recently initiated members are Dovie Chandler, Jean Russell, Sara Peek, Nedra Line Hellbrueck, Barbara Conn, Blanche Layton, Blanche Muldrow, Florence Stapleton and Carrie Bailey. Mr. Leo Luecker and Miss Edna West are

Campus Regulations

B. Unchanged, except for:
3. a. During the week of examinations, lights may be extended for the purpose of study or for other necessary work.

G. Study Halls in the Dormitories:

1. A special study hall is observed in freshman dormitories from 8 p. m. until 10:30 with a ten-minute recess at nine o'clock. During the study period freshmen are not privileged to visit in other rooms unless special permission has been granted them.

2. By majority vote of the residents any upperclass dormitory may adopt study hall regulations of their own, irrespective of other houses.

C. Unchanged except (Town going.)

2. Seniors and students on the dean's list are permitted to go to town on Saturday afternoons.

M. Trips away from Milledgeville:

2. Substituted week-ends.

a. Students are permitted to substitute without penalty any week-end for one designated by the college provided no classes are missed and a special permit is presented.

4. One-day Trips:

a. Students having an average of two quality points per course or better are allowed two one-day trips per quarter away from Milledgeville on Sundays and on Saturdays of home-going week-ends with parents, legal guardians, or their equivalent as responsible chaperones.

b. Such students are allowed one additional one-day trip away from Milledgeville each quarter any Sundays or Saturdays of home-going week-ends under circumstances of extra or substituted week-ends—a special permit that states where, with whom, and by what mode of travel they expect to go and return.

c. Freshmen and transfers are allowed not more than two one-day trips during their first quarter.

Regulations Governing Ab-

Passed and Vetoed

The underlying philosophy of the rules and regulations committee that presented changes in campus regulations for next year was to seek, as well as encourage, scholarship, good manners and an appreciation of the arts.

Scholarship was the chief aim. The girls who worked on this committee spent hours and hours during the past several weeks trying to find ways to encourage higher scholastic work. Finally, after much consideration, the conclusion was drawn that Dean's List students should be given special attention, and that, perhaps, by giving students with higher records certain privileges our standards might be raised.

The following proposals were made to be presented to the Student-Faculty Relations Committee concerning Dean's List students:

1. Students on the Dean's List are privileged to have an extra home-going week-end each quarter, leaving after Friday's classes and returning by 10:25 p. m. Sunday. They take the penalty on classes missed, but are excused from the cash penalty. Special permits are required for such trips.

2. Saturday Afternoon Town-going.

3. Students on the Dean's List are given optional class attendance to the extent of four absences without penalty. (additional unexcused class absences make a student subject to exclusion from college.)

The second request was granted, but the first and third proposals were referred to the Executive Committee. They were not passed!

Have you ever seen a group of faculty members that thought the students had actually worked and figured on a certain idea? Yes, we have seen some such groups, but the Executive Committee that met Wednesday had something else on their minds. For only one hour and 15 minutes these people gave some thought to the two most important things that our CGA group with the advice of good council from members of the faculty had spent hours upon.

Why was it necessary for the requests to be taken to the Executive Committee which had had no time for studying the problem after the Student-Faculty Relations Committee understood the situation? Because it was asked to allow Dean's List students to have only four more cuts per quarter another committee of faculty members had to be met.

When the requests were brought up, one of the committee said that to give any reward for Dean's List would make the list take a negative meaning. Someone made the remark that it was honor enough to have one's name printed in the "home-town" paper. (These are the reasons given, and since we as students were represented at the meeting it seems only fair that we should know the requests and the reasons for refusal.)

No Suggestions

When we asked the faculty committee for some suggestion as to how we could raise our scholarship and how Dean's List students could be recognized, they had no recommendations. Do we think they considered such an important thing thoroughly in such a short time?

It was also remarked that the Dean's List students would take too many cuts. But how many were asked for? Not optional class attendance as one faculty member advised but only four additional absences.

When we comedown to plain facts, these students on this list as a whole do not even take the four cuts we are allowed now, but it would be nice for them to know that they had a few extra privileges if they had done better class work the preceding quarter.

If we are to raise our scholastic standards we must make a beginning. Where do the faculty members propose that we begin? We, as students, thought it best to start with the "upper crust" of our intelligent students, but evidently we were wrong.

Year's Trial

And now for the good news for the seniors of next year (about 1-4 of whom are having to go to summer school to be eligible to live in senior hall.) The Executive Committee gave a year's trial for unlimited class absences to the seniors. The seniors should know when they need to attend class and when not, but we hope this privilege will not decrease the number of graduate next June. But if juniors who are not passing this quarter are given this

By BLANCHE LAYTON

Seniors, seniors everywhere! But wasn't kid day the "cutest thing?" Seniors came out in their usual dignity for their teas, banquets, and dances of the week, however.

On Monday morning (just after the weekend) when Ruth Adams was asked by Dr. Wynn is grammar class to give an example of a certain sentence, why, pray tell, did she reply so quickly, "Love is a wonderful thing."

Dr. Wells seemed to be in a romantic mood, too, on Monday.

You should have seen Mr. Luecker the other day when he was imitating Alfred Lunt's "Macbeth". It was really a scene worth seeing.

The Colonnade staff received a picture show party on Tuesday for their annual compensation. It was that "Jessie's favorite" — James Stewart, doing his duty on the screen once more.

In case you're seen about ten students going around dressed as Groucho Marx, Katherine Cornell, Baby Snooks, or the Three Blind Mice, don't be alarmed. It's a part, just apart, of the initiation of the Alpha Psi Omega pledges.

What has happened to Belle Woods? Has love or spring confused her brain? She insisted that it was the 12 o'clock period when it was only 11 last Tuesday.

Mildred Ballard won the prize for the cutest "kid" in the senior class. Lorraine Justice knows "how to hunt" (I wonder why) and she won the prize for the treasure hunt. What kind of prize did Miss Neese get for her rig-up?

The Freshman Home Economics club had a picnic last Saturday morning—the sun was nice for a picnic, at any rate.

Wasn't Monday's assembly program good? The seniors, as well as Dean Adams and Dr. Wells, gave a swell "good-bye program."

What do you think of the Y's idea of Big Sisters for next year's freshmen? I wish my Big Sister had had only me to pester her.

The spoken English class has been reading poetry for this last week. It has been suggested that Clyde Ellen Longley and Martha Leach go on the stage. They are really superb at the poetry-reading game.

The Corinthians ought to be out soon. Mary Sallee, the editor, has been reading proofs and sitting up late for the past month.

By the way, the Colonnade staff has moved its office back from the hospital to Parks Hall.

The orchestra will spend the first part of examination week out at Lake Laurel. How can they play at graduation with their backs sun-burned?

Listen you land-lubbers! I have joined the hospital ranks. I write now my last will and testament before I float away on a liquid diet.

Situated here in the isolation of those persistent walls for com-fortably staring walls I am able to see things blankly from the high white perspective of a bed.

I have unearthed the secret of a slim and lovely figure. The essence of leanness. This feeling of being entirely whole but not here of you, dear readers, have audibly—I have found the answer. It is swiftly and quite simply a liquid diet. I will it gladly to you who find food discouraging to beauty.

I have gained the place that all wished at 8:30 a. m.—sleep! I will it to you with its sleeping pills and night caps of tomato juice.

To you whose dating hours that pass like a joke you didn't get, I give the long slow hours of the afternoon—with the heat and Jany.

My yellow horse of imagination, when it's fever-ridden, goes to you who need brilliant excuses for various members of the faculty.

I sweetly give my ability to gracefully get away with wearing no make-up to those of you who have no grace about not wearing it anyway.

Magnanimously I transfer the ownership of my constant companion, Mortimer Fly, as chief tormentor, for whatever mission you need him to fill.

My repertoire of case histories and operations goes to those morbidly interested.

Permit me to offer to you who have never grown weary of trying to have pains, the assortment I have diligently done nothing to disregard—may you have better

BACKWARD GLANCE OVER '40-41

Among the College Theater productions presented this year was "Ladies In Waiting." The above scene was taken from this mystery drama directed by Leo Luecker and Edna West.

This year Frances Lott served as president of College Government Association.

Etta Carson headed the Recreation Association for 1940-41.

A highlight of Parent's Day, sponsored annually by the Granddaughters' Club, is recognition of the dormitory having the greatest percentage of parents present for the event. The winning dormitory of the last Parent's Day, October 12, was Bell Annex. Shown above is Mrs. H. M. O'Callaghan, housemother, and Bell Annex girls.

Frances Lott, president of CGA for 1940-41 holds the golden slipper while Betty Jordan, the sophomore president, and Joyce Slate, the freshman president, gaze on jealously. The freshmen were the winners of the slipper this year.

Josephine Bone was president of the YWCA during the year.

Mrs. W. Y. Atkinson riding up the walk in the old surry was part of GSCW's fiftieth birthday party celebration which was held April 25-26.

The 1940-41 editor of the Colonnade was Panke Knox.

Martha Daniel was voted president of CGA.

These outstanding girls were chosen from the student body to represent GSCW in the "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Mary Jeanne Everett is president of the YWCA.

CGA Constitution Adds Four New Committees

Changes of the CGA constitution have been made and approved for 1941-42 by Student Council. The complete constitution will appear in the 1941-42 handbook but only the changes are listed below:

The purpose of the association shall be to promote the highest standards of honor and integrity in all matters of personal conduct and scholarship; to increase the sense of individual responsibility; and to encourage co-operation between the faculty and students in all matters; to enact and enforce laws concerning the conduct and general community welfare of the students; to foster intelligent interest in all phases of college citizenship; and to prepare its members for assuming the duties of active citizenship in their respective communities.

Campus Sportations

By ANN WATERSTON
The final meeting of the General Board of the Recreation Association was held Monday night. Jane McConnell and Ann Waterston led the managers and skill club presidents in brief resumes of the year's work. Hunkies were served at the end of the meeting.

The seniors took over the physical education building and play field Wednesday afternoon. The "Ganggreens" responded to a challenge from the "Lillywhites" to a game of softball, and licked them 10-9. Dr. Boesen, senior sponsor, umpired the game. Nell Cull Bryan really did a fancy job at first base, and never have we seen a more wide-awake third baseman as Martha Howell. Mildred Purdam shot that line about not having played before, but she was really swinging the bat. And Jay Smith could be seen running from one side of the field to the other, snaring the "ole apple" down like a professional. Miss Neese "just gave" one home-run to each side... for being such sweet girls. And from the ball game the "grads" went swimming, bicycling, and tennis playing... after all that! Who says our seniors are getting old???

What with the end of the year closing in upon us, the Folk Dancers had to get in one more night of "Marching Down Tennessee" and "Paw Paw Patch". The girls met on the roof garden in the Physical Education building Tuesday night and reviewed all the dances they have learned this year.

Members of the Dance group do not confine their time to dancing... all the time. The girls went out to Lake Laurel tonight, and they are planning a weiner roast for "close to" midnight tonight. Sounds interesting doesn't it? Miss Tison and Miss France Ramser will act as faculty chaperones.

College Fun Predominates In Memories of '41

BY GINGER SNAPS

Another year has passed! 1941 is now history! As we have gone from day to day, we have seldom realized that scrapbook memories are in the making. Now that our college days are over for the year, let's glance back at the gay times we've had together.

Indulging in midnight feasts, dressing for concerts and banquets, and gloating over the Easter corsage all have become a definite part of this college life. Sometimes, we believe that the thoughts that linger with us from these events will be remembered longer than that history date or the grainy rule.

Do you remember way back in September when you were breaking your neck, pushing over friends of last year? Remember, in the rush of it all, how you lost your trunk key, your registration card, and your ten faithful bobbie pins?

Unpacking was one of those tiresome occasions that ushered in the first week. Clothes were strewn everywhere. Old text books were brought back just in case. It's a collegiate miracle how you got around to your purpose here, which is, incidentally, attending classes.

The annual hike was scheduled, and on the annual hike you went! Wasn't it fun eating sack supper and drink ink well water? Wasn't it refreshing to sit in the middle of the lake in a boat and feel the soft breeze?

Parents' Day! My, but you thought the family would never get there. They said they enjoyed it so much but not half as much as you did.

Things took on a new meaning as the Y lead us through Religious Emphasis week. Such fine talks guided us on to better thinking and better living.

Remember how Blanche Muldrow and Mr. Leo Luecker gave us excellent performances in "Oedipus, the King"?

Now is the time when we must bid adieu to our '41 college fun. Maybe we haven't studied as hard as we should have done, but wasn't it Robert Louis Stevenson who said: "Tis better to have traveled happily than to have arrived"?

Passed and Vetoed—

privilege, why did not the committee see how much more incentive it would be for the whole school to give just four extra cuts and another week-end to Dean's List students?

No definite reasons were given for refusal and another privilege, unasked for that was on the same basis, was granted by the committee. Words can not express the disgust which we, the students, feel when we try to find some way of improving our standards and then receive no co-operation or even minute suggestions.

Day Trips

The other important change that was made refers to one-day trips. A student, passing all her courses, is allowed two one-day trips with her family and a third with anyone approved by her parents — this means we may take such a trip with a date. All such trips are based on scholastic standing and a student who failed the preceding quarter will have no trips from the campus except home-going week-ends.

Graduation Of Peabody Held

Mary Patrick, editor of the Palladium, was elected by the senior class of Peabody High School to speak at the graduation exercises which were held Thursday evening, May 29, in Russell auditorium.

Miss Ethel Adams presented the D. A. R. citizenship and history medal.

Miss Mildred English, superintendent of Peabody, delivered the diplomas and certificates to 48 graduates.

On Tuesday, June 3, the seniors will leave for Washington, D. C., on their annual class trip.
